The City of Bath Male Choir are one of the leading Male choirs in the United Kingdom. The Choir started back in January 2006 by Founder Grenville Jones. Grenville stepped down at the end of 2022 as conductor and his son, Laurie Jones, has taken on the leadership role as Musical Director. The 'Boys from Bath' are an auditioned choir who have entertained audiences across the UK and toured Europe, the States, and Japan performing in some of the most prestigious concert venues. In 2008 the Choir achieved national acclaim when they reached the finals of the BBC television choir competition Last Choir Standing. The Choir sing a wide range of music from traditional, pop, gospel, musicals and secular music. The Boys from Bath always strive to make the best sound and guarantee they will entertain and put a smile on their audiences faces as they experience the 'Wall of Sound' (as quoted by Russell Watson).

The City of Truro Male Choir

The Choir was born out of Chacewater Carnon Vale Male Choir, when its practice venue moved to the City in 2003. The earlier name derived from the village choirs of Chacewater and Carnon Downs, which were formed in the 1940s and combined in 1991. Over those 75+ years, the choirs have had numerous successes. During lock down they maintained practice via Zoom and developed our skills in making both serious and fun You Tube videos.

The talented Musical Director is Cornishman Russell Pascoe, a well-published international composer and Cornish Bard. The repertoire is wide, modern and entertaining and the choir pride themselves in projecting both "ancient and modern" of the male voice genre.
